ARTS AND SCIENCE PROJECTS

Observatory Support for Art and Science Projects

- » OVSQ is involved in many art and science projects in an effort to convey the importance of scientific messages through works of art and emotional responses.
- » OVSQ participates in the dialogue between collaborators through Diagonale Paris-Saclay and is involved in large-scale events such as the Festival Curiositas de Paris-Saclay.
- » Collaborations between scientists and researchers contribute a lot to the scientific community and their laboratories as well as to artists. The general public is open to learning through an emotional connection in exhibitions, events, workshops, conferences, etc.
- » In June 2018, the OVSQ collaborated in the project "Ils remontent le temps..." (Back to the Past).
- » In the autumn of 2018, the Observatory hosted an exhibition by an Inuit artist in partnership with the Diagonale Paris-Saclay, which had already been shown to the public at the Science Festival (Fête de la science) in 2017 at the Commanderie des Templiers in Élancourt.
